sp flash tool v5134301sp flash tool v513430.iso 20.5 MB kernel size is 2048, Minimally I need to flash the bootloader and the recovery image on a Galaxy S2 (GT-i9500). How do I do it? I can't seem to find any tutorials on the net. Please can you help me. Thanks I followed the directions and I am able to boot up into the recovery with the option menu. However, it boots up too fast and I cant read the menu. It just boots me into the icon. I had to reboot my device to access to the recovery. I am using the Samsung Galaxy S2, GT-I9500. Please help. Thanks. Answer:I can't boot into recovery If you're getting a triangle with the droid logo and then the three dots with 4 arrows then that's what you're doing correctly. Not sure about the Galaxy S2 though. The Galaxy S3 does not have a method of flashing a new ROM without having to get a new device. I would look on XDA for an option that will do that. You can use the Clockworkmod recovery to boot up from any partition. It is available from the downloads section here. If the boot option is not working after following the steps in the steps given above please try the recovery option for your phone again. Have you tried recreating the boot.img file? Try to boot into the recovery mode with the most recent and official build of Clockwork Mod Recovery for your phone and see if you can find the option there. Answer:I can't boot into recovery mode Hi Your first screen is the clock... try to reboot the phone, it could not boot because of hardware, try to turn on the computer and then go to recovery mode with the console and then you have to choose " boot from sd card" Hi. I'm new to android. I would like to know where to find tutorials on how to install a new rom. I have my phone rooted and my 82157476af
